Another thing: It has been reported in numerous authentic Ahaadeeth that the houses wherein there are no mosques are cursed. Abu Wa-il (Radiallahu anhu) says: "Once I was accompanied by Sayyidina Umar (Radiallahu anhu) on a journey. Then the ruler said: "I have prepared a meal for you. Will you kindly proceed with me to our house?" Sayyidina Umar said: "Look at the houses of today's men of culture and learning. Is it at all possible for them to adorn their homes with such things? Our pious ancestors and elders would not even enter such homes of the non-believers wherein there were no mosques." Rasulullah (Sallallahu Alayhi Wasallam) said: "When the sun rises two angels stand near the rising sun and say: 'O Allah, give us the reward of the people who have gathered here for Your sake.' Think about those people who through being exceptionally stingy and miserly and who through numerous sins have incurred the wrath of Allah. Sometimes they take ill (with some disease) with the result that hundreds of rupees are spent on doctors and medicines. It often happens that which the parents had earned through hard toiling and sweat over long years of struggle is lost. In the Hadeeth we are told: "Man speaks about: 'My wealth, my wealth'," whereas in actual fact all that is really his is that which he has gathered. Sayyidina Ali (Radiallahu anhu) said: "Whatever wealth you gather which is in excess of your needs, belongs to Allah." This is also substantiated by many Ahaadeeth, all pointing out that all that one possesses beyond one's needs belongs to Allah. Allah Ta'aala's Word states:

"They ask you, O Muhammad, regarding what they should spend. Say: That which is superfluous." (2.219)

In this verse the word "Al -Afwa" i.e. "superfluous" is used. Ibn Abbas (Radiallahu
