And the Muslim however a great sinner he may be, will, eventually after having been punished or pardoned

Rasulullah (Sallallahu Alayhi Wasallam) said: Whoever is enjoying the bounties of this world in spite of his evil deeds

Then Rasulullah (Sallallahu Alayhi Wasallam) recited the verse:

"And then when they had forgotten that whereof they had been reminded, we opened unto them the doors of wealth which they had forbidden for themselves."

Rasulullah (Sallallahu Alayhi Wasallam) said: Cultivated crops which the wind blows hither and thither. In the

It can also be proved from many other sayings of Rasulullah (Sallallahu Alayhi Wasallam) that the cause of

Even their evil deeds will go unpunished whereas even the seemingly insignificant evils of a Muslim will

The only manner in which they can save themselves from all anxieties is to discard sinful acts as well as

Another Hadeeth of Rasulullah (Sallallahu Alayhi Wasallam) says: "He completes for him the punishment of his sins." (Mishkat, Tirmidhi)
